

Benefits of Jute Thread verse Burlap

All Burlap is manufactured over seas from either China, or Bangladesh India. Ghillie Suits.com's material is also imported from over seas.

When a soldier receives his burlap, it comes on a 2" thick x 50-100 foot long roll. He then has to unroll the burlap color of his choice, cut a length he/she desires, (18"-22" long), then pull out the horizontal threads of each piece to get actual Jute thread in which he/she will attach to his uniform to produce a Ghillie Suit. He/She then has to do the same for each color that is required for His/Her Ghillie Suit. This tedious project requires time to cut the burlap, and then shred the burlap resulting in a 50% loss of original product.

With Ghillie Suits.com's Jute thread, our thread is cut into 18"-22" lengths, then those are dyed into eight different colors. These cut and dyed threads are then bundled together. The end result is a Jute thread pre-cut and dyed ready to assemble to Military clothing, BDU's, or onto netting to be worn over clothing, or to conceal an object.

Ghillie Suits.com's Jute

Burlap

Pre-cut Jute thread in the exact size needed.

Must be cut into strips first, then shredded to achieve the jute thread.

No loss of material or natural resources.

50% loss of material when shredded.

No loss of time to produce, ready to use.

Requires tedious cutting and shredding.

Available in eight different colors.

Only available in the 4 or 5 basic colors.

We use a single ply 10 lb. Tensile strength Jute thread which is uniform in size and thickness. The result is a smaller gauge thread, which allows Better camouflage concealment. Like a computer Monitor, the smaller the lines of resolution, or Dots per inch, the better the view, or clarity.

Burlap material has knots through out it's Material, and is thick and thin in the thread used. This results in a bulkier material with weak spots from the knots and thinner areas in the thread. Hence a heavier suit, with Less concealment ability.
